HOW THE PURETRAC SYSTEM WORKS

1 The Nose Monitors contain sensors that continuously measure indoor air quality. The information is transferred to the data interface.

2 The data interface allows for collection and storage of the data on the server for easy Internet access.

3 The customer has access to live data via the Tri-Dim website. E-mail alerts are sent when air quality conditions fall outside preset limits.

4 Secure information is presented in simple trend charts that display current or historical data.
